MARRYING FOR MONEY

Marrying for Money by Mrs. Eva Leonard—For the Housewife To Preserve Filberts—Coal Ash for Cleaning—Compact Traveling Sewing Cases—Handkerchief Holder for One Who Travels.

Jacob Townsend and his bride had just left town for their wedding trip. The three children had returned to the new home prepared for the bride; the home in which the bride had elected to be married.

Marian three herself into a large leather chair and exclaimed bitterly. "I am thankful they are to be gone a month. That month will give all the peace I ever expect to have."

"Don't take it too hard, Puss," said Dudley comfortingly. "Things may turn out better than you think." He sat down on the arm of the big chair and stroked her hair.

"I wonder how long father can keep this thing up." He made a comprehensive gesture that included the time, new house and expensive furnishings.

"The furnishings alone cost more than the entire firm has made all the year," George's tone was gloomy in the extreme.

"I wonder if the girl things he is made of money," said Dudley in an irritated tone.

"Of course she does," burst out Marian. "She never saw a dollar before, and it takes a pauper like her to sling money when once she gets her hands on it."

"I am mighty glad father fixed up the partnership papers. He treated us handsomely in the affair. It will not be his fault if we lost anything financially," went on George, not noticing his sister's outbreak.

"I wonder if she will sign that paper," mused George, resting his chin on his hands.

"If she does I'll miss my guess. She would have signed it when he asked her to if she had had any notion of doing it. She is in this for all the money there is in it. She has her portion all solid and she intends to get as big a slice off the rest of the property as she possibly can," grumbled George.

"Don't worry, boys," broke in Marian. "There will not be much property to divide if she keeps on the way she has started out. She'll run the whole business into bankruptcy if Daddy gives her as much rein as she has had so far."

"You're right, then, Puss," said Dudley with increasing gloom.

"Father is too much of a business man to be ruined by his new toy. He'll call a halt this side of the precipice all right," George's tone was decided.

"Yes, if Mrs. Ortrude will consent to halt. I have my doubts about it personally."

"My, Puss, but you do hate her cordially," Dudley tweaked her ear.

"I'll have plenty of company. I may be even surpassed before the year is out," Marian tossed her head.

"Frankly, I am afraid she is right," began George. "We must call a halt on this thing. If you cannot get on with her, you are out of a home. I've got one of my own, thank the Lord."

"We must call a halt," repeated Marian. "What do you mean?"

"I am afraid the conciliating measures will have to come from your side. She has got the inside track. Whatever she does, father will have to stand by her."

When George stopped speaking a silence fell on the group. Dudley was the first to break it.

"We are all in a pretty tight place and we must try to help one another out. If I am doing anything likely to cause friction, tell me about it and I'll do the same for you." He was looking at Marian. She laughed bitterly.

"Really, dear," continued Dudley, "you will make it beastly hard for father and all of us if you do not try to keep the peace."

"Hard for father, indeed!" Her lips curled in scorn. "Much I should care about that after the mess he has got us all in."

"But you do care for me," continued Dudley, playing his last card. "You would not want to make it harder for me, would you?"

"No." The girl dropped her head on his shoulder and began to cry. (To be continued.)

Household Hints.

To Preserve Filberts—Remove their husks when perfectly ripe and dry the nuts by rubbing them with a coarse cloth. Sprinkle the bottom of a stone jar with a little salt, then put a layer of filberts and lay alternate layers of salt and nuts. Lay the salt on lightly. Keep the jar closed down and let it stand in a dry place.

To mend a knife or steel fork which has come out of the handle, fill the hole in the handle with finely powdered resin. Hold the rough end of the knife or fork in the fire until it becomes hot, but not red-hot. Insert it in the powdered resin, and hold it in a straight position until it is firmly fixed.

Buckets may be cleaned with fine coal ash moistened with paraffin. Use a coarse cloth for the purpose and rub evenly all over the bucket. Wipe out carefully, and then rinse well with soapy water.

When Traveling.

For Sewing—There are so many compact little traveling sewing cases that it is difficult to make a decision about them. There is one, however, that almost everybody who travels would like, and that is the one that holds three balls of darning cotton and darning needles of assorted sizes, all compact in a very small leather case. It costs only 60 cents.

Handkerchief Cases—Every traveler needs some sort of handkerchief case or holder. Those made of silk or ribbon are always easy to make and easy to carry. But there are also some compact leather cases that can be easily slipped into the handbag or suitcase. One is shown in the sketch, made of leather of different colors, lined with silk of the same shade. There are two pockets in the cover, and a capacious place under the silk flaps beneath.

To the People of Ogden:

All are aware that January 27th has been a day set apart by those in authority of the Jewish race for the purpose of contributing as freely as their means will permit for the relief of the poor and suffering of that race, who have been made destitute by the horrors of the frightful war which is now engaging the attention of the European races.

Let us remember that suffering knows no race or creed, and that he who gives quickly and generously will never regret the action.

SALT LAKE BOYS CONFESS CRIMES

Salt Lake, Jan. 29.—Capture of several members of what has been termed the "Post street gang" was made yesterday afternoon by Officers Willey and Hendrickson of the police department. Two of the youths admitted participation in three holdups and robberies that have recently been committed, say the officers, and evidence is being secured which, it is believed, will connect the "gang" with other crimes recently committed in the city.

The youths arrested yesterday afternoon gave their names and ages as follows: George Thornton, 19 years of age; George Dale, 20; William Hackett, 20; Alexander Snedden, 19. Searched at the police station, Thornton and Dale were both found to be heavily armed. Alexander McPhie, 17, and Hugo Tadge, also believed to be members of the gang, were arrested last night.

The first prisoners taken last night made confessions to Juvenile Officer George Robinson, admitting the following crimes, committed within the last three weeks:

Hackett, Dale and Thornton stole five-ty pounds of brass from the Denver & Rio Grande shops.

Snedden, Hackett, Dale and Thornton robbed a store at First West and Second South streets. The same night they held up a Japanese and took his coat.

Snedden and Thornton stole the gloves from an auto at Fifth South and Eighth West streets.

Thornton, Hackett and Snedden held up and robbed a Mexican on First South street, between West Temple and First West streets.

Thornton and Dale also say they held up a street car in Walla Walla, Wash., about December 7 and secured nearly $50. Officer Robinson has wired to Walla Walla authorities to learn if this statement is true. Should this be confirmed they will probably be taken back to Washington for trial there. They and Tadge are former inmates of the Utah Industrial school at Ogden.

TWO MEN KILLED IN BIG SNOWSLIDE

Logan, Jan. 28.—Abraham (Abby) Woolf, 23 years of age, and Mervin Daines, 22, both residents of Hyde Park, about five miles north of Logan, were killed in a snowslide Thursday night in a small canyon a short distance above the town. The bodies were discovered this afternoon by James Daines, father of Mervin, who went in search of the young men when they failed to return yesterday morning.

A large rescue party was formed and the bodies will be brought into Hyde Park some time tonight.

The young men owned a prospect in the canyon, and Thursday morning left their homes to make a trip to their property. They did not return that night and this morning the elder Daines went up to investigate. He found that a big slide had carried away their tent, and further search revealed their bodies frozen stiff and buried in the snow. Mr. Daines returned to his home and organized the party which went up to bring down the bodies, after telephoning the news to friends in Logan.

Mervin Daines is unmarried and a nephew of Professor L. L. Daines of the University of Utah. Woolf is survived by a widow and one child.

SHORT LINE TRAIN IS IN SNOWDRIFT

Butte, Mont., Jan. 28.—Men on skis who went out at night to locate a passenger train which left Dubois for Spencer, with four engines attached, were unable to brave the terrible cold, and the whereabouts of the train, which carried some passengers from Salt Lake to Butte, has not been determined.

Dillon reports that rescue crews refuse to work and no trains from Salt Lake will arrive before Sunday. Rotary attempts to burrow through snowdrifts mixed with sand, which froze as hard as rock, are disabled. Forty-eight section cars were burned at Humphrey, Idaho.

Five hundred cars of coal are in her blockade some distance from the passenger trains.

MILLARD COUNTY HAS MANY WELLS

Salt Lake, Jan. 29.—The recent discovery that practically an unlimited supply of water is available in the arid districts of the Salt Lake valley in the form of artesian wells is to be celebrated by the residents of Millard county. June 1, 2 and 3 have been set aside as "Well" days. On those dates the entire population of the state is invited to be the guests of Millard county at the mammoth celebration which will be held at Fillmore, the historic temporary capital of Utah.

Flow is Enormous.

Last summer some of the enterprising farmers began to drill for artesian water, and last fall their efforts were rewarded. Water was first acquired by means of artesian wells by Brigham Tomkinson. Mr. Tomkinson drilled two wells, which gave a flow of 1200 and 1000 gallons of water a minute. Well-drilling was taken up in earnest by many of the farmers after Mr. Tomkinson's efforts were rewarded, and now there are nine flowing wells in the valley, which empty up on the fertile soil approximately 10,000 gallons of water a minute.

And the well-drilling activities in Millard county have only begun. Practically every farmer who does not have ample water from the irrigating companies is preparing to drill wells as soon as the equipment can be obtained. At present there are four or five outfits working in the valley drilling wells, and there is a demand for as many more. Almon Robison, in the valley, has set aside $20,000 for well-drilling purposes and has announced that more funds will be appropriated if necessary to furnish water for his 10,000-acre ranch.

RUSSIANS SURPRISED.

Berlin, Jan. 28, by wireless to Sayville.—The district of Gushyev, in northern Albania, has been occupied without opposition by Austrian troops, it was announced today by army headquarters at Vienna.

On the Russian front, the official statement adds, detachments of the Tenth Galician infantry regiment attacked by surprise a Russian advanced position near Toporoutz, drove out the occupants of the trenches and took a great part of them prisoners.

Was there ever a time when both parties fulfilled an engagement prompt on the minute?

YOUNG GIRL IS NEARLY FROZEN

Salt Lake, Jan. 29.—Genie McEwan, 13 years of age, who has been residing with her aunt, Mrs. William Dunlop, 851 West Seventh South street, was found nearly frozen yesterday morning leaning against a tree near Sixth South and Third West streets. She was picked up by J. A. Chapman, 355 South Third West street, and later taken by the police to the girls' detention home, where she will be cared for pending word from her relatives in California.

The girl told Mr. and Mrs. Chapman that because she had remained out late Wednesday night she was afraid Thursday night to go to the home of her aunt and had attempted to pass the night on the porch of a house in course of construction near the place where she was found. The cold prevented her sleeping and after becoming exhausted and chilled during the long night she had sought the tree for shelter when she was found by Mr. Chapman shortly after daylight.

The child declared that her parents were both dead, that she had two sisters, one in California, the other in Idaho. She told C. A. Carlson, inspector of police, that she had been threatened to take her before the juvenile court and that it was because of fear that she remained out late Wednesday night and was afraid to go home Thursday night.

GREAT STORM HITS MINING CAMP

Park City, Jan. 28.—The worst storm in many years swept down on Park City last night and today and practically everything is at a standstill. The Union Pacific was unable to operate its trains at all and the Denver & Rio Grande passenger train, due in at 10:30 this morning, managed to get in about 3 o'clock this afternoon.

All lower grade schools were dismissed this morning because the children were unable to get through the snow. The funeral of Lee Canady, who was postponed until the road to the cemetery can be cleared. As the Morgan basketball team was unable to get here, the basketball game scheduled for tonight also was postponed.

The mines also suffered. On account of the high line railroad being buried in snow the Ontario and the Daly West were forced to suspend operations and the Silver King Consolidated also was idle on account of a slide blocking the roadway. Several teams got off the road last night and early this morning and a large force of men has spent the day digging out the roadway and trying to get the teams out of the snow.

Two small slides at the Alliance this morning did no damage, but a larger slide at the Daly-Judge carried away the garage and smashed the windows in the superintendent's house. The roadway also was buried, making it impossible to operate teams.

FOUR DISCHARGED FROM BANKRUPTCY

Salt Lake, Jan. 29.—Four men were discharged from bankruptcy by Judge

Tilman D. Johnson in the United States district court yesterday. They are Lorenzo E. Worthen of Salt Lake, Joseph H. Sharp of Salt Lake, Harry D. Culver of Ogden and Hyrum Elmer of Murray. David B. Baron was adjudged bankrupt and the case referred to Referee Charles Baldwin.

Referee filed his appearance bond with the federal court yesterday in the Lewis Shoe company cases.

The trial of the case of R. L. Sabin versus S. Hayden, to recover some $3,000 for goods alleged to have been shipped secretly from Oregon, was in progress all day yesterday in the court and will probably be concluded some time Monday.

John W. Christy, clerk of the court, has received a copy of the mandate affirming the decision of the United States district court of Utah in the coal land fraud cases.

The cases which are to follow the Sabin case, in order, are as follows: Dominio Blanco, administrator, versus Bingham Mines company, for damages for personal injuries.

Alex Soderman versus Tintie Mining & Development company, a transfer by alleged bankruptcy.

Julia A. Trumbull versus Salt Lake & Utah railroad, damages for injuries.

Judge Johnson announced yesterday that rule day would be on Saturday, February 6, instead of Monday, February 7.

Brigham P. Newman, Salt Lake tinsmith and sheet metal worker, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy yesterday. He listed his liabilities at $8,666.49 and his assets at $5,479.15. of his assets, he claimed, $4,270 as exempt under the bankruptcy laws.

Lecturer Is Homemaking Woman

TALKS ON "EFFICIENT HOME MAKING"

MRS. VAUGHN TELLS SECRET OF HAPPINESS

BEGINS BETTER FOODS-BETTER HOMES WORK MONDAY AT THE ORPHEUM

ALL WOMEN INVITED.

Program for Monday Afternoon Subject: "Efficient Home Making" MENU: Omelet Muffins Peas

Soon the odor of delicious and dainty dishes will be permeating every crack and crevice of Orpheum Theatre, where the Standard Better Foods, Better Homes school is to be held every afternoon next week under the personal supervision of Mrs. Kate Brew Vaughn. These lectures and cookery lessons will be free to all women of the city who wish to learn more about housekeeping as an art. A successful housekeeper who has had actual experience in making a home and caring for a family, Mrs. Vaughn is coming here to teach the secret of home happiness, as she learned it by experience and observation. She will give practical and comprehensive lectures on the best way to cook and serve food and the best utensils to use.

The Standard invited women of all ages and interests to come and hear her lectures, because she believes that women, no matter how old and experienced in housekeeping are always glad to learn new things. Mrs. Vaughn is making her third trip to the west in the interest of Better Foods, Better Homes, and this is her second visit to Ogden. Because of her popularity as a Better Foods, Better Homes lecturer and the reports that her schools are always attended by large crowds of women, Orpheum Theatre with ample seating capacity, has been secured in which to serve and hold her lectures and cookery lessons here.

Mrs. Vaughn not only cooks but knows how. She has studied the matter scientifically and practically, theoretically and experimentally and actually cooks before her class, explaining all cookery processes in full detail. A home making and home loving mother, her talks in regard to the home appeal to the hearts as well as to the minds of her hearers. Some women, she says, never get beyond being housekeepers, while others are homemakers in the true sense of the word. She explains that there is a vast difference between those who live in the home and those who merely exist in the house. There are housekeepers who are never happy unless they have a duster and brush where they can take them out at a moment's notice and who fret worry and make themselves and ev-everybody else about them uncomfortable about one little speck of dust. Such a woman has by no means reached the understanding and the meaning of home life. No woman has, who keeps the daily details of household arrangements always in front of her and loses sight of the mental and spiritual comfort of the home circle. Another reason for unhappiness in the home is the desire to keep up with the neighbor who has a little finer home and a little larger income than her own.

Mrs. Vaughn lectured throughout the east and the south last year and the year before she lectured in the west and on the Pacific coast. She feels that her schools in the west are her greatest triumphs, because western women are more progressive and more deeply interested in her Better Foods, Better Homes work than she finds elsewhere. Especially does she commend the work of her Parents and Teachers Association in the west and gives particular attention in her lecture and cookery course to school feeding. It is her belief that children have great need of a warm noon luncheon, or where this is not possible, nourishing and appetizing food in their lunch baskets.

Lectures For All Classes.

In her lecture course here, Mrs. Vaughn will take hold of the troublesome question of what to have for dinner in a practical and forceful manner and reduce it to an interesting and fascinating task. Her lectures will appeal to all classes of women, society women, business women, professional women, young and old, experienced and inexperienced housewives, trained and amateur cooks, are everywhere eager to hear the message of cheer and encouragement and inspiration Mrs. Vaughn brings to housekeepers and homemakers. Every woman in Ogden is sure to gain something to her advantage by attending the lectures and cookery lessons in Orpheum Theatre next week. This Better Foods, Better Homes school is to be entirely free.

In these days of unrest, when women are, according to newspaper and magazine writers, running off a lot of fads and follies and interesting themselves in the making of a government, rather than in the making of homes, in every art, except the cultivation of art, and in making a place
